The circus has moved on.

A big crowd filled the streets yesterday.

October in New Mexico is still a marvel of delight to visitors.

Roswell will extend to the Hearst party its hearty welcome.

Interesting church services are announced in the various churches to-morrow.

Clouderoft is to enjoy a season of horse racing the last three days of this month.

Judge W. H. Pope, the new appointee, will hold his first term of court in Roswell beginning the first Monday in November.

In deep contrast will be the visit of the Hearst party compared to the fly-by-night excursion of the Beveridge party, last fall.

T. B. Catron has been elected President and L. B. Prince First Vice President of the Irrigation Congress which recently met in Albuquerque.

The total New Mexico assessment for this year is $41,851,576 an increase over last year's of $742,831. However, the actual gain in assessment subject to taxation is almost $3,000,000 because this year many double assessments were eliminated that were carried along in former years.

It is not often that The Independent can consistently command an appointment of President Roosevelt, but an exception presents itself in the announcement that Judge William H. Pope of Santa Fe is to be named to the vacancy existing as associate justice caused by the removal of Judge D. H. McMillan. Judge Pope is an able jurist, a gentleman whose private life is beyond reproach, and moreover a resident of the territory of New Mexico. He is only thirty-three years of age, and is the youngest man ever appointed to the supreme bench. His selection is one of the most popular ever made in the territory.

—Silver City Independent—

An Interesting Figure.

William Randolph Hearst of New York, the head of the congressional party which is making an extensive tour of the territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Indian territory, is one of the most interesting figures in national politics to-day.

The son of the late Senator Hearst of California, he inherits great wealth, political prestige and ambition, and the necessary brains and energy to wield the endowments. A westerner by birth, he has chosen the great city of the east, New York, as the field of his activity. Through the syndicate of newspapers which he has acquired, however, he has broadened his field of influence until it now includes the whole country. He has touched the popular chord by espousing the cause of "the masses." He has particularly identified himself with the interests of organized labor throughout the country. He has recently been elected to the congress of the United States by the Eleventh New York district. He is now a recognized candidate for the Democratic domination to the presidency, and many newspapers and party leaders throughout the country have predicted his nomination.

Mr. Hearst's personal appearance is that of a successful American. He is above the average height and of strong build. He is noticeably quiet in his manners, and gives the impression of possessing great reserve power. He receives every man with an easy grace and a hearty handshake. He is a man of wide education, a graduate of Harvard and an extensive traveler. For an aspirant to the presidential nomination he strikes one as a young man, even in this age of young men. Whether successful or not in his immediate aspiration, he is a man with a large future in the field of national politics. He is particularly interesting to the people of New Mexico as a man who intends to assist in their fight for statehood through the powerful newspapers which he controls.—Optic.

REPORT UNTRUE.

Supposed Dead Man Writes His Father In This City.

The report reached the city some days ago that Tom Vest had been killed on the T. X. ranch twenty miles east of Carlsbad is not true, as the supposed dead man has written a letter to his father, T. P. Vest in this city, denying the report. Mr. Vest is the manager of the T. X. ranch and it was reported that he was roping some steers on the prairie and the horse threw him, killing instantly and the body was not found for two days. It was also reported that the horse was nearby and the steer had been roped and the rope was still tied to the saddle. Mr. Vest was distracted until he heard from his son.

GOTHAMITES ARE ADVERTISERS

The New York City Campaign is Waxing Strenuous.

New York, Oct. 17.—A visitor riding upon the street cars of New York these days would know that there existed here a violent political struggle without reading the papers or hearing the coming campaign discussed. In the strenuous manner in which they go about everything, Gothamites interested in the municipal elections soon to be held are advertising in the elevated and trolley cars, and one can look up almost any time and behold "Vote for Low and a clean administration;" or "Vote for McClellan, the choice of the people." It all seems new and novel to persons coming from cities where politics is not carried to such a great extent, but for the past few years advertising has become an important feature of both state and municipal political campaigns.

D. A. R. OF MINNESOTA.

Now in Session and Matters of Interest Discussed.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 17.—The annual state conference of the daughters of the American Revolution was held here this afternoon. The delegates were welcomed by the state regent, Mrs. F. A. Rising, to whose address response was made by Mrs. C. T. Thompson of Minneapolis. In addition to receiving the officers reports and transacting other business of a routine nature, the session discussed the Continental Hall fund and other matters which are to come before the next national congress of the society. The business session, which was held in the First Congregational church, was followed by a reception at the home of the regent.
